MORRIS ARBORETUM

May 4, 2010

During this splendid day in Philly, start with a guided stroll through the beautiful Morris Arboretum, then enjoy free time to explore the lovely grounds and browse the gift shop. Head next to Penn's Landing downtown to board the Moshulu, a glorious Tall Ship now berthed as an elegant floating restaurant. Enjoy a fine lunch, and hear tales of the ship's world voyages. This special day is a feast for the eyes and the belly!

Travel this morning to the Chestnut Hill area on the north side of Philadelphia to discover the beauty of the Morris Arboretum, a 92-acre Victorian landscaped garden of winding paths, streams, flowers, fountains, historic buildings, modern sculpture, and some of Philly's oldest and rarest trees. A fortune from iron manufacturing—and a fine eye for beauty—enabled Quaker siblings John and Lydia Morris to transform a barren landscape into this horticultural wonderland. Enjoy a guided stroll through the grounds that lasts about an hour and covers approximately a mile. Then take time to browse the gift shop and to explore the amazing arboretum, now part of the University of Pennsylvania, on your own, delighting in the panoply of colors provided at this time of year by hazels, magnolias, cherries, maples, dogwoods, rhododendrons, azaleas, crabapples, stewartia, and roses. Afterward, motor downtown to Penn's Landing, where the magnificent Moshulu, the largest four-masted Tall Ship still afloat, is permanently berthed and serves as an award-winning restaurant offering excellent food and wonderful views. Enjoy an elegant lunch aboard the great ship, and hear tales about her exciting seafaring career, which included rounding Cape Horn 54 times. Return home well-satisfied after a day of beautiful sights and fine food. Expected arrival in Lancaster is 5:45 PM, York 6:30 PM, Red Lion 7:00 PM.
