FORD'S THEATRE

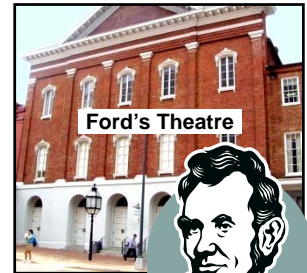

August 29, 2010

Come with us to DC to tour Ford's Theatre, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. Visit the theater's museum to learn about Lincoln's life and death, and hear a Park Ranger's talk about the tragic night. Walk across the street to the Petersen House, where the mortally wounded President died. Then enjoy hours of free time on the National Mall to explore mighty museums. It's a special summer Sunday in the nation's capital!

Traveling to Washington, head first to famous Ford's Theatre, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated on April 14, 1865. Visit the theater museum to experience interactive exhibits that transport you back to 19th century Washington. Explore Lincoln's life in the capital city, and learn about his death. See the derringer used by John Wilkes Booth, the actor and Confederate sympathizer who entered the President's theater box to carry out the assassination. After the museum experience, hear a Park Ranger discuss the events of the tragic night in detail in the theatre (unless it is in use). Then walk across the street to the Petersen House, the German tailor's home to which the mortally wounded Lincoln was carried. Here Mrs. Lincoln grieved, cabinet members assembled, and Secretary of War Edwin Stanton pronounced, "Now he belongs to the ages" when Lincoln expired early the next morning. Head next to the nearby National Mall, where you will enjoy free time to explore the mighty museums of the Smithsonian, including the popular Air & Space museum, the Museum of the American Indian, the American History Museum, the Natural History Museum, and much more. The National Gallery of Art also welcomes you to its vast collection of priceless treasures. Lunch on your own is available in many museums, and we suggest you also have a snack before we depart the Mall at 4:00 PM. Return home after a memorable day in the nation's capital, with expected arrival in Hunt Valley at 5:50 PM, Shrewsbury 6:10 PM, York 6:30 PM, and Red Lion 7:00 PM.
