THE HORSESHOE CURVE EXPERIENCE

October 17, 2010

This popular autumn tour heads first to Johnstown to visit the Heritage Discovery Center and learn the dramatic story of local immigrants. Enjoy lunch on a mountaintop, and ride the famous Inclined Plane. At the Johnstown Flood Museum, see an Academy Award-winning film about the historic tragedy. Then it's all aboard AMTRAK to ride the rails around the world-famous Horseshoe Curve in the beautiful Allegheny Mountains. A delightful day!

Travel west to Johnstown, PA, picking up our guide along the way. At Johnstown's Heritage Discovery Center, learn the story of the immigrants who came to work in local mills and mines. Receive a photo card depicting a fictional immigrant as you enter the museum, and relive that immigrant's story as you move through interactive exhibits. Afterward, motor to Historic Westmont, the community built by survivors of the Great Flood of 1889. Enjoy lunch in a mountaintop Westmont restaurant, then delight in a ride on the Inclined Plane, the world's steepest passenger and auto funicular. (The funicular was built to carry townsfolk to higher ground if the waters rose again, a purpose fulfilled in 1936 and again in 1977.) Enjoy a breathtaking view of the town below! Next visit Johnstown Flood Museum for a moving introduction to the events of May 31, 1889, when a 40-foot wall of water killed more than 2,200 people in 10 minutes. View an Academy Award-winning film depicting the flood and the community's triumphant recovery. Then it's all aboard AMTRAK to enjoy a spectacular train trip to Altoona, which includes riding around the world-famous

Horseshoe Curve

Inclined Plane in Johnstown

Horseshoe Curve. Constructed just west of Altoona in 1854, the Horseshoe Curve played a key role in the westward expansion of America by proving railroads could conquer the Allegheny Mountains. Reboarding the motorcoach in Altoona, head home from this intriguing tour with an appreciation of the region's great natural beauty and its historic tragedies and triumphs. Expected arrival in New Cumberland is 7:50 PM, York 8:30 PM, Red Lion 9:00 PM.
